

Let's head for home me boys

Words and Music David Blakeley

The tide is turning once again the wind begins to blow
We'll weigh the anchor, trim the sails as homeward bound we go.

Let's head for home me boys
Let's head for home me boys
Let's steer a course and keep her true.
Let's head for home me boys

We've been at sea for many months and felt both sick and sore
But now it's time to turn around and head for home once more.

The sea made sure we payed a price as we wrestled waves and foam
But neither sea nor cruel wind would stop us heading home

The sun is sinking from the sky and nighttime gathers round
The stars will guide us on our way as we are homeward bound.

The harbour lights are shining bright as the shore comes into view
And those we love are waiting there to greet both me and you.
